

An algorithm is a process or set of rules to be followed in calculations or other problem-solving operations, especially by a computer.

